DEBATE SQUAD AVERAGES .500 IN TOURNAMENT

Schmitz, Nodurft, Orth, Kronberger, Leeseberg Debate.

Wartburg's newly organized debate squad achieved the equal record with the first team of Charles Schmitz, junior, and Norman Orth, freshman, coached by Dr. Ralph McHenry, participated in 32 debates in competition with 64 of the best teams from all over the United States in the National Catholic Tournament at St. Thomas college, Saint Paul, Minn., Feb. 23 and 24.

The second team, Edgar Nodurft and Martin Leeseberg, with Leo Kronberger alternating in some preliminaries was unable to win a decision, but debated with seasoned teams from Gustavus Adolphus, Minnesota agricultural college, and similar schools of national rating. Nodurft debated St. Olaf college of Northfield, Minn., won the St. Thomas decision, and lost to Gustavus Adolphus another Minnesota school in the finals. Other teams entered by Catholic universities in the Pan-American California tournament were defeated by both Orth and Schmitz, Orth losing to the decisively contested debate by a single point of the seven judges.

Start With Wins

Orth and Schmitz were also successful in their debates at Morningside and Drake universities, Schmitz and Orth winning from both schools. Schmitz was defeated by a unanimous decision of the judges at the Drake tournament, losing to Bob Mehaffey, who won the decision over Tom Eagleton, Missouri senator's son, in the finals.

Besides Schmitz, Schmitz and Orth, the American squad consisted of Orth and Leo Kronberger, sophomore, in the Drake tournament, losing unanimously to Morningside's second team, and Schmitz and Orth, Schmitz and Leeseberg, and Nodurft and Leeseberg in the Catholic tournament.

Dr. Ralph McHenry, coach of the debate squad, accompanied the teams on their trips.

Mrs. McKnight Judges.

Catholic University of Minnesota was among the large number of judges, which also included Mrs. McKnight, coach of the Wartburg squad.

As the tournament neared into final rounds, Freedom J. Cassidy, Catholic University of Minnesota were among the undefeated favorites entering the finals. Cassidy was defeated in the semi-finals while St. Thomas entered the finals over St. Olaf and two teams, St. Thomas and Gustavus Adolphus, from Sioux Falls, Omaha and Hastings.

Dr. Ralph left Wartburg at noon Saturday morning and arrived at St. Paul about 4 p. m. The 500 St. Paul students in the Convention Hall auditorium Saturday night accompanied the debate and arranged to entertain Miss Jane Walker, as Coquin, accompanist for the band in event.

Lorna Dieterle, sophomore, sang at the parochial school of Saint Paul's church. She is taking Piano at Mannes College of Music.

DRUNKENNESS TO BE INVESTIGATED

Student Chemists to Make Blood Tests of Inebriates.

The chemical department of Wartburg college will be the center of research activity in the state of Iowa for the next few months, according to announcements made by Dr. Arthur Lueck, who is going to attempt to determine the exact relation of alcohol to auto accidents. Tests will be made by the use of chemical analysis and tests of the blood of persons arrested for drunken driving, it was announced by Dr. Lueck.

The first phase of the research is to begin immediately, Dr. Lueck announced. The laboratory staff is now making preliminary tests to determine the exact procedure to be followed in order to make the tests as accurate as possible. Then the tests will be put into effect in order to get the data.

The first cause of drunkenness is to be found in the alcohol consumed. The laboratory staff is trying to find out the percentage of alcohol in the blood necessary to cause drunkenness, and to determine as to the intoxication or sobriety of an individual. Many outstanding chemists such as Professor Widmark have made tests that a chemical test for alcohol in the urine contains inadequate information. Dr. Lueck's staff is trying to find out also about the concentration of alcohol in the blood, regardless of tolerance, age, weight, or food consumption.

The state of Pennsylvania reports drunkenness as associated with fatal auto accidents as but 2 per cent for 1937. This suggests that the role of alcohol has not been properly evaluated and there is now a survey being made to determine the relationship of alcohol to auto accidents.

RELIGIOUS WEEK WAS OBSERVED BY STUDENTS

Varied Meditations Carried on During Course of Week.

For the past six days the Wartburg college student body has been stressing the idea of a week of special emphasis on the religious aspect of the Lenten season. The main aim in mind has been to present as effectively desire in the students of Wartburg to give more time to reflection on the cross at Calvary and on the dying Savior there, to develop a real appreciation for the wonderful sin of God in His own Son, our Redeemer, and to manifest this by means of Godly living in child-like humility, particularly given to repentance, prayer, and thanksgiving.

An attempt has been made to bring this about, not by enforcing regulations, observance, and duties, but by presenting a general atmosphere of humble meditation during the Lenten season. Early morning devotions, a chapel service each day at 10:30 a. m., a prayer fellowship each evening at 4 p. m., and a Christian service each evening at 7:30 p. m. have been the means by which this has been attempted. Then, over and above these services, there have been the private devotions of the individual students. Many students have attended services in the churches of the city, and many have spent more time in their own rooms in meditation and prayer. Many have also spent more time in reading the Bible and other devotional literature.

The climax of the week will be reached tomorrow when the Holy Communion will be celebrated at the 10:30 a. m. service.

BACCALAUREATE SPEAKER CHOSEN

Dr. J. C. Mattes, president of Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, has accepted the invitation of the senior class to speak at the baccalaureate service which will be held Sunday, June 4 at St. Paul Lutheran church.

Dr. Mattes is an instructor at Wartburg Seminary. He has published a little over a month ago. He has previously served a parish in the Dubuque district for four years. He is also a well known author.

The student council met Sunday, Feb. 26, at Wartburg hall. Walter Frederick presented a report on the methods used by other colleges to regulate student conduct on the campus. A discussion of the honor system and its applicability to Wartburg college followed.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

LEW SARETT

Lew Sarett, artist-Indian woodsman-poet, will appear on the Wartburg lyceum program Monday evening in the chapel-auditorium at 8 p. m.

POST-VALENTINE PARTY HELD

Poetic Contest Participants Misbehave, Scavenger Hunt Features of Fresh Party

The annual party of the freshmen girls in the upper classmen of the Academy and in the girls dormitories was held Feb. 10 in the gymnasium of Wartburg college.

For the best quality of Wartburg's Sarcasm and Lampoon a contest was held. Prizes for the contest prizes were given to Miss Maria Schlee and to Mr. Ross Nielsen. Miss Schlee wrote the following verse:

Since every bad start love a gal
Won't you be my sweetie pal?

Mr. Nielsen wrote the following:

The snow is on the campus,
The frost is on the Rhine,
Dear Miss Dieterle but I love you,
Won't you be my Valentine?

Pantomimes Presented.

Eight teams of the evening's program participated in which every team had to present a pantomime. The assembling of Knights and Ladies of the Round Table was the subject for another pantomime.

Games and contests were played during the evening. Two of the most interesting were Lew Sarett's Sarcasm and Lampoon and Sigmund Sandrock's Fly Catcher.

Norbert Angst's battles with the flies were dramatized and also his activities in Wartburg hall. A funeral was presented in which the corpse and minister exchange places. Red Riding Hood also went through the woods again, with Wolf in it. A dining hall scene, with an orchestra, and a much-secured debate were also presented. Another feature of the evening was Johnny Simmons and Roland Wuest in the melodrama, "No. No, a Thousand Times No."

A scavenger hunt concluded the entertainment part of the evening. Lunch consisting of sandwiches, cupcakes, and cocoa was served.

The girls was decorated with red hearts and red and white pieces of paper.

LEW SARETT LECTURES HERE MONDAY, MAR. 6

Noted Woodsman-Poet Appears on Next Lyceum.

The nationally famous Lew Sarett, the woodsman-poet who gives lectures which critics say are so unique that like Ripley they defy classification, will appear on the Wartburg lyceum program on Monday, Mar. 6 in the Wartburg auditorium at 8 p. m.

The background of Lew Sarett has enabled him to write poetry which the general reader and literary critics establishes his presence in the field. He was born in Illinois, "Old Kent," was a "cowboy" in Montana, over the prairie of the Dakotas, and a "hobo" in Canada. He is a graduate of Northwestern university, and a graduate work from the University of Chicago. Besides being the interviewer of Indians, and having lived with them, he has taught at the University of Illinois and has been a professor at Northwestern University.

Lew Sarett's dramatic life story readers makes his lectures fairly fascinating. His work has thrown him in contact with many famous people of the world. He was Teddy Roosevelt's guide when he visited the Century, the Private Secretary to Harriet Monroe, editor of Poetry Magazine, the North American Review, the Saturday Review of Literature, and the New Republic. He is now a professor of literature

WARTBURG'S CONGENIALITY

Orchids to the upper classmen in general. It is they who have helped greatly to make freshmen life what it is on Wartburg's campus. This campus society has welcomed the freshmen element to join its royal realms. This welcome has seemed not only outwardly apparent but to be the real "McCoy". Striking has been the experience that freshmen are not only interested as is true at many other institutions but we "green ears" are tested rightful respect and given due assurance and acceptance to help eliminate the inferiority complex which the average freshman student is found to possess. However, contrast to this has been noted. But what would life be without variety and its eccentric mortals.

To add to this Wartburg congeniality we freshmen should put forth special efforts to further this social relationship, especially, in its more formal moments, such as attendance at plays, lyceums, special programs and parties. Let's be the host tighter!

RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK

It appears that Religious Emphasis Week under the sponsorship of the Luther League has sufficiently touched the spiritual life of the student body in general to be called a success. Many students have availed themselves of the numerous methods of additional religious meditation during the week, realizing the necessity and helpfulness in such solemn gestures. Those true in heart shall certainly be rewarded.

REFEREEING

Reminiscing and surveying the recently concluded basketball season, the subject of refereeing calls to memory a few interesting notations. With basketball as fast as it is, and since the elimination of the center jump, the qualities of refereeing have become more exacting. Natural deductions would have it that young referees are needed to cope with the situation. Men who are more alert stay with the action of the game and are less prone to prejudices. From observations during the past season it appears that the refereeing has not been altogether satisfactory. Many of the conference referees, virtually all of whom are old, have referred from behind the scenes of play, being unable to keep pace with the game. Many have seemed to formulate their decisions through a haze of haze and thus have lessened interest in the game, lowered the esteem of their profession and caused natural reacting hardships on even the excellent officials who make their appearances. To generally improve the game and its various aspects the trend should be toward younger referees or especially toward engaging the best obtainable. This is an obligation owed to spectator and player alike.

"Meine" Kettner

Meinhardt Kettner was born to Mr. and Mrs. L. Kettner of Nestor, Minn., on Oct. 20, about two decades ago.

He was christened Meinhardt but soon as an infant he was called "Meine" by his friends. "Meine" finished high school in Morgan, Minn.

He came to Wartburg to take the business administration course which will, we hope, enable him to become a successful business man which is his greatest ambition in life. Even now, this course is helping him in his business words. "Meine" was elected class president by the freshmen this year.

Meinhardt is not athletically inclined, he said, but he does like to play tennis, baseball and go swimming. Movies and dancing are collegiate hooks and snipes.

Karl U. Landgrebe

Karl Landgrebe was born June 26, 1920, in Richfield Iowa. He grew up and finished high school at Cushing.

Karl is vice-president of the freshman class and says that he came to Wartburg because of the better Christian environment and because of the more personal relationship between the students and teachers. He is enrolled in the liberal arts course.

Karl is a member of the choir, the Luther League, and the Science club. His pet peeves are early morning risers, early morning risers and such cheerful people who seem that he dislikes unintelligent persons very much. (We can't blame him for that!)

He likes to stay up late and eat a steak late in the morning, argue for the fun of it, sing a swell tenor, and play the piano.

Olivia Denef

There was a birth in Brant, Ontario, Canada on Feb. 15, 1920, and Olivia Denef came to grace our state. Don't get me wrong, it wasn't Dr. Dionne Quintuplets—but—that's all.

Life has been a good deal like a crochet dance for Olivia—just a series of images. From Canada she moved to Buffalo, N. Y., then here to St. Paul, Minn., and finally to Theresa, Wis. She graduated from high school at Mayville, Wis., in 1938.

From there she came to Wartburg where she is enrolled as a freshman, taking a music course. She is secretary of the freshman class. After two years here, she plans to attend the University of Wisconsin.

She has one big hobby, which is a collection of phrases from her readings.

One thing that she dislikes very much is contented people. Her favorite pastime people and for everything but classes and children's programs.

The thing Olivia treasures most in life is true friendship. With Godlowsky, she says, "Real friendship is like superior wine, it gets strong and mellower with age."

Olivia had to first place on the honor roll in the first semester. The freshmen have to thank her for letting the upper-classmen know that all freshmen are not green.

LENT STRESSED IN DAILY CONVOCATIONS

Reverends Nassen, Clinton, Braulick, and Hiltner Speak.

Rev. W. C. Nassen of Allison addressed the student body in convocation on Monday, February 20, on the topic of "Unsung Heroes."

He pointed out that everyone worships some hero, no one is absolutely neutral in the worship of heroes. We are quite willing to worship the heroes of our hero.

"We are very apt to worship our own rabbi, to be heroic, unpurchased men. Nassen said we are prone to worship those people who have performed heroics in spots are not remembered, but their deeds live on. Often we are deserted on the second thoroughfare, many of the truest heroes live unsung. Master yourselves and stand under the hill of God and be faithful in a few things—I will make thee rulers over many."

Beauty for Ashes.

On Feb. 28, both "Ash Wednesday" and Washington's birthday, Rev. J. Clinton of Fayette emphasized the necessity of a right mind. "Those who keep them in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee."

Rev. Clinton recalled some of the experiences to point out the ability to choose beauty for ashes. He pointed out that Lent was a time to find the beauty and glory of our life. "Let us check up in Lent on ourselves and glory," said Rev. Clinton, "and let us realize what a beauty and what a gift."

A Motto for Lent.

On Feb. 27, President Braulick presented one of the talks in a series of lectures on the Beatitudes. He stressed as the motto in Lent for us as Christian Heroes: "Blessed are the poor in spirit for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven," was one of his striking statements.

Something to Watch in Lent.

Paul Hiltner stressed four points to guard against in Lent. Studies, which may fill our head but not satisfy our soul, were warned against. He further admonished, "Guard your Christianity that it may not become a sentiment, an emotion, or a spiritual penalty. Watch against special activities, which may take our attention from Christ, and when we have had a glimpse of worship in Lent, let us not quit this communication with Christ at the end of Lent."

Professor Hiltner challenged each student to recollect his thoughts of the day during the evening quiet hour and "Have a good way to overcome spiritual weakness," he went on "keep practice supplying the dangerous desires of our body; it has always been a liability, even to the saints."

Business and Social Meeting Feb. 19

The meeting of the Wartburg College Luther League was held in the gymnasium Sunday evening, Feb. 19, 1939. The meeting opened with the hymn "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Amanda Waltz read a lesson from the Bible.

The business meeting was in charge of Harold Gabbert. Albert Schumacher and Florine Arbolt were accepted into membership of the League. Reports were rendered with special emphasis in the form of information special committee visits during Lent, and self-denial endeavor. It was decided to have in picture in the Trumpet.

Social Program.

The program for the evening was in charge of Esther Wise. The group sang America. Alvina Lippert played a piano solo. Negro spirituals were sung by the group. Several games were played by the group after which refreshments were served.

PRE-THE

"Whom will ye that I release unto you: Barabbas, or Jesus?"

Pilate, desiring to release Jesus but upon what he considered a clever trick. He offered to release either the murderer, Barabbas or the innocent Jesus, thinking it impossible for the holy priests of Israel to ask for the release of a murderer, but he failed to understood the evil in the hearts of Jesus' enemies and the bitterness of their hate. They chose to free the murderer and insisted upon the death of the innocent One.

What a terrible choice the Jews made that day! What terrible consequences they invited when they cried, "His blood be on us and on our children!" Since then the Jews stamped their own destiny—a cruel doom.

On the other hand, what wonderful love Jesus showed to turn both the weakness of Pilate and the cowardness of the people to our salvation. They chose to turn both means in completing the great plan of salvation.

Let us frankly look at our sins. We read in Luke 4 that there was a famine in the land. We recall the verse? "And Peter went out and wept bitterly." Might Peter have not bitterly, when we consider what he has done. Judas' sin was no greater, but his repentance, in the sight of men. Those tears were Peter's salvation. The wonderful thing about Christ is that He accepts us as we are. The suffering Jesus is now looking down upon us. Those tears He remembers the multitudes for which He is suffering and to turn from these with tenderness.

Yes, the Jews made a terrible choice that day. During Lent as we must make our choice. Shall we choose Him, bring Him unto the cross, the endless pains, sufferings for us. Even though we have been false to Him, shall we turn to Him again, with a new love, with a new devotion, and with a new zeal.

We are not much to give Thee Lord, For our love that made Thee rise; I have not much to give Thee, Lord But all I have is Thine.

—Lois Holt.

New Facts about Old Grads

By Esther Weiss.

Scarcely do think of Alumnites as those who are far away. We see but a few once each year, and then only for short visits, so we can then write to us because we seldom hear from them. But occasionally we do keep up the lines of communication and when other members learn from and what we know more about what we are doing here.

In this issue we will try to tell you a little about several graduates who have journeyed far from Wartburg.

Chaplain Wuebben.

E. P. Wuebben, who attended Wartburg college at Clinton from 1921 to 1924, is now chaplain in the United States navy. His address is U. S. S. Whitney and P. O., San Diego, Calif. Rev. Wuebben is also a graduate of Capital University (1925) and of Wartburg seminary (1928). In 1923 he married Bertha Falkward, a graduate of Wartburg normal. They have four children: Marjorie, Everett, Jr., Frances, and Paula.

Before his service in the navy, Chaplain Wuebben was pastor at Altenburg, Mo., and at Gary, Ind. He was chaplain in the Army Air Reserves in 1925-26 and Chaplain in a CCC camp at Wisconsin. Since then he has been with the navy.

Missionary Fliehler.

Paul Edward Fliehler, who graduated from Wartburg college, Clinton, in 1923, is an ordained missionary of the Lutheran Missionary Society, Madang, Territory of New Guinea. He was graduated from the seminary at Dubuque in 1926 and came to Buena Vista in the fall of that year.

He married Bertha Ehrenschild of Dubuque, Iowa, and they have two sons. Mrs. Fliehler died in 1931. Rev. Fliehler later married Miss Lydia Seidler, R. N. of Sheboygan, Wis.

Missionary Fliehler was honored with the position of Acting Superintendent of the Lutheran Mission of Madang while Supt. Pietz is home on furlough.

Missionary Henkelmann.

Frederick W. Henkelmann, also of the Lutheran Mission, Madang, was graduated from Wartburg college at Clinton in 1924. He is missionary at Bunabun on the north end of our mission field in the Madang district.

He is not married. A native boy does his cooking for him and another one the laundry and general housework. He always gets lots of much of the time supervising the work in the old congregations at Karakan, among the heathen in the Adelbert Mountains. While he was home on furlough, he did post graduate work at the University of Michigan.

The next issue will tell you about some graduates who are very near home—we would not want them to get jealous. But, as you read about these men far from home, who have consecrated their lives to God, have a prayer in your heart that they may carry on their splendid work.

Two-year teachers have completed the first half of practice teaching at Irving school every afternoon. These two-year teachers will practice teach just six more weeks.

Seminary Notes

Wartburg Seminary

Dr. Wm. G. Sadi of the stewardship department of the American Lutheran Church addressed the student body in the interest of stewardship during February 26-27. The subject of Dr. Sadi's four addresses were:

"Souls, Not Dollars"—the budget of the American Lutheran Church in terms of immortal souls.

"Tearing Down"—Christ as appraisal of the work of the church.

A Working Church—a practical program in stewardship and the tithing congregation.

"Next Years Bill Your"—a study in Christian giving.

"Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man shall be accomplished." (Luke 18:31.) Thus the theme for the Lenten Retreat of the student body on Ash Wednesday. The very inspirational and devotional services was conducted jointly by Professors Schmidt, Mattus and Reu. The theme for Prof. S. Salzmann's meditation was, "Christ leaving behind the vision of glory on the mount." Dr. J. Mattes spoke on "Christ sharing the miseries of the world." The subject of Dr. J. Reu's address was, "Christ making the final payment for man's deliverance." The service closed with the entire congregation stressing and chanting the Litany.

"Peace with the Dictators" by Norman Angell was the book reviewed by Erwin Kantt at the International Relations Club on Feb. 29. William Riekert reviewed "The Mediterraneans in Politics" by Elizabeth Monroe. Speaking of English interest in the Mediterranean Mr. Riekert said, "England desires to remain in the Mediterranean not only in order to uphold her prestige, and because in event of war her fortresses would facilitate her mobility for purposes of imperial defense, but chiefly because it is one of the world's main highways."

Rev. Clarence Eber, 38, of St. Donatus, Iowa, and Rev. Paul Abts, 36, of Luana, Iowa, visited the campus recently.

Immanuel Koester, Walter Pfeifer, Arnold Fabe and Werner Bischert are confined to their beds with influenza. Student Nurse Gerhardt Renz states that the patients have responded to treatment and should be in classes again shortly.

Capital Seminary

Waldemar Langhals returned to Capital Seminary, Wednesday, Feb. 25. Wallie had been missing classes since the latter part of January, when he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Richard Gumz preached on Sunday, Feb. 26, from Zion Wittenberg, Ohio, where he interned during the past summer. Rev. W. D. Hammer "Dick" was the two sermons Feb. 26 and 27 and to the Building of St. Ridemaker's new congregation in Zion's church at Louisville, Ohio.

Tests for junior class sermons have been released by Dr. L. Heil. Paul Reu Hess was permitted to make the initial attempt of the test Tuesday, Feb. 28. Junior readers, Wenske and Fietz have been busy preparing for their first sermon.

Reader Identifies Girl's Team of 1925

Trumpet readers continue to come through 100 percent in the identification of Do You Remember cuts, as Mrs. William Coltz of Muscatine contributes the necessary information for the second time. The cut which ran in the Feb. 10 issue of the Trumpet is that of the Wartburg Girls' basketball team of 1925.

W Club Serves Evening Luncheon at Boarding Club

Speedy Service Pleases Customers in First Attempt.

By P. Leesebrg

The Wartburg "W" club on February 28 operated on one evening luncheon. The lunch was served from 5:30 to 7:00 o'clock.

In a cabaret setting the club members with unexpected speed ushered the food out to the customers. In fact, Wartburg's own inimitable "Doc" Kramer felt absolutely out of his station. Only after several Dave Neumann set his feet. The lunch consisted of delicious Virginia baked ham, Swiss steak, potatoes mixed, peas (it is not parker house roll) and generous amounts pumpkin pie. All in all we have said above Sunday Chow lived.

On Saturday, the committees—Herman Becker, chairman, Shag Dowling, Andrew Tomsic and Lyal Schmidt—met in the morning to perform the differential tasks.

Students' Buys: Emerson made note of the broken dishwashing machine. Bernard willing to please, turned his soul pecking job over to him. Then finding all the others busy, Bernard "Bernie" Grave drew a chair up to Bessie desk. With the air of an executive he sank down and put his feet on the desk. Picking up a Saturday Evening Post, he proceeded to enjoy his very existence.

In contrast to this we see "Heathcliff" Wagner and "Dyna-mite" Gall really getting down to the business and eggs. They discovered each egg and spud and could easily see that they were hard to tell the difference between the two.

This was the first attempt made by the club in restaurant service, but as Mr. Becker has said very repeatedly, they are contemplating another luncheon in the near future.

Herbert Pape, in behalf of the "W" club, wishes to express appreciation to all concerned in making the lunch a success.

PARTY LINE

Longfellow wrote a lot of verse
Some was good and some was worse.
But
No matter what his enterprise—
He never seemed to write a prize.
Miss Schorr and Nielson wrote six lines
And won themselves some valentines.

Franc Ohle had an operation.
Doctor Stoll stood at his station.
Ohle had an iliac a leg.
And from inside they took a dog.
A stitch, a knife, a pain,
And a dirty old man.

Lueschen's Boo had its mare
Yes, mine!) beat the engine mare.
But you could see it move.
It stopped and Leon would improve.
It went and everybody held their breath
Until the Boo fell in death.

Norma died and Schoenberg pecanized
Until a certain point was reached
When Lew began to play with swine.
The dead ones made music king
She left the room with solemn pace.
And Rev. Schroeder took her place.

One language wasn't violated
When not a single word was stated
In a furious debate.
"Professor" August came over late
In a great rush and dining time.
Presenting all the slaves and strife.

Much ability did function
Here a speech or any there
Here a pass or any there
We say, it's a Thousand Times.

A Scrapbook Hint and Touch
Ach! Ho Stollman Villanine party was swell.

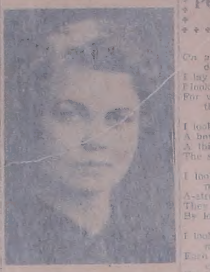
To Get Cap



Ina Voelker, who graduated from Wartburg in June, 1937, received her cap in the traditional capping ceremony at the Frances E. Bolton nursing school of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, O., last evening. Her father, Rev. F. H. Voelker of Waverly, was present for the ceremony which signified completion of the first part of the training course. Miss Voelker enrolled in the school in September and will take a three-year course.

HINTS TO COEDS

Right on the heels hundreds more. And, of course, the ever-present beauty to emphasize the drought or cause its gone. How true that is, I cannot say.

Incidentally, the powder puff, the modern one used all too frequently in the wrong settings. There is a time and place for everything. Even that doesn't infer everyday and all the time.

How one ever stopped to consider how much dust in the middle of powder to comb the hair, a whole cause to have every minute? Not only that, all of powder? I dared if he would have many. If any, more opportunities to have a date and please tell the girls to go on as if their face or powdering were the vital portions of the body. There are other secrets to the puffed-out scene.

Makeup doesn't wear off in just a few minutes; neither do your lipstick and rouge when they're in no breeze. Before applying that dab of rouge that absent-minded girl or that lipstick, look your companion. I'm sure he will appreciate not having to witness the out of beauts in the process. Then next time you go to the fairies, resort on pictures. And, speaking of rouge here, a lesson of Andrew Jones calls attention to your extra color and complexion. Although every girl isn't blessed with a peaches and cream complexion, that needs no breaking bitches, you should deftly apply your makeup with-in. Or if you can't do it deftly. That you should be able to face the world with the assurance that you have used enough discretion, that label of artificiality.—Experience

Prize Contest Held in Ticket-Selling

A contest in ticket-selling for the play "Penthouse to Cloister" was held in Room 210 of Old Main last night. Prizes of a box of notebook paper to Adam Leal when sales totaled $38.50. The second prize, a box of stationery candies, was given to Walter Preuss. Gretchen Hoff, Barbara Breymueller and Erna Mowen tied for the third place. They drew for prize and Erna Mowen received the Everything. The ticket-selling group consisted of four freshmen, two sophomores, two juniors, two seniors, two students for faculty, four visitors in town-town district and ten people in the surrounding towns.

Henry Koch, senior, was involved in a slight accident last week near Plainfield. R. F. Sutcliffe of Cleveland, crashed into his car on a junction on No. 218. Only minor damage was done to the cars and no one was hurt.

POET'S CORNER

Looking

On a warm and sunny summer day
I lay on a grassy bank.
I looked at the beauties around me
For which we our God should thank.

I looked at the sky above me,
A bowl of burnished blue.
A thing of God's own making.
The same since things were new.

I looked at the tall trees around me
And
A-reaching their arms to the sky.
They worship their Maker daily
By looking to Him on high.

I looked at the grasses beneath me
Even shade looked back in my eyes—
Too some God made the grasses
That shade the trees and skies.

So if ever when I'm a-traveling
Along life's narrow way
I should become discouraged,
Or look to God and say,

"O God who gave us nature
So wonderful and fair
Help me to struggle upward,
By the aid of this, my prayer."
—Bob Bickle.

IN MEMORIAM—FALL 1938

We Freshmen really are a gang,
We give the others quite a bang.
We polish shoes and wash the walks,
We sweep the rooms and clean the halls.

We've chased around by bigger fry
And quake when "uppers" catch.
We Freshmen also wake at night
To find ourselves without a light
And asked to go down town for lunch.

Which upperclassmen like to munch.
We're told in how, not to comment,
And "button" tic of a demand.

We stand down those who would rebuke
Our boast and our desire.
We fight with biggest smaller boys when
We're pushed around.
And the meanest would we flee.
We strain ourselves to push a rope,
It seems as he our only muse.
We're subdued by all the rest.
Yet when we win the others scoff
And say, "Twas just your lucky day."
Then your strength for other play.
Yet freshmen have their own
Traditions dear
They bring a smile to someone else,
Then and in every little way;
They have their place in life I say
—Richard Bunge.

TO A COLLEGE PROF.

One beautiful star-lit evening,
With the heavens all darkened above,
I there in the blazing sunshine
And wiped the sweat from my face with a glove.

The green trees around were so pretty,
Their branches all lonely and bare
A bald headed man by the road-side
Was combing his thick red hair.

A pretty young kitten came purring,

He bussed at my feet in distrust.
The scene closed was in Mexico
That I turned away in disgust.

And now in my comfortable padded cell,
In my cell that is four by four,
While my zebra beside me is grazing
I cut out dolls by the score.
—Bob Bickle.

LENT

Another season at the door
Calls to our minds the days of yore—
When slowly up to Calvary's hill
Our Savior, humble, kind, and still
Walked to redeem the world. With love
He bore the scoff, the bruised shove,
His humble head in silence bore.
He gave his all in that first Lent.
He even prayed for foes untamed.
While hanging on the cross unblamed.
A crown of thorns, O Sacred Head!
It was for me, my love you shed!
I am the cause; I'm to blame;
I should have borne his grief and shame.
Upon a rose stripped of its leaves
He hung between two guilty thieves.
What glory now with head so bowed!
It was to save, his side was rent
On Savior kind drove near to me.
Hear Thou a humble sinners plea!
"Give me the grace which Thou hast taught
Lent I ought
A kindly word and nobler thought
Help me to shun each sinful love for me
A brighter, closer walk with Thee."
—Richard Bunge.

CAGE PLAYERS END CAREERS

When Wartburg officially bowed to the Tigers from Upper Iowa, defeating Central on Feb. 21, four Knights were the Wartburg colors for the last time. Three seniors and a junior ended their careers on the Wartburg cage squad.

Dave Chittenden, Ernest Wagner and Carl Kallweger, seniors, were not in the scoring, played the last game of their careers.

Captain Norman Becker, a junior, one-year student and top scorer for the season, will return for another season as cage prospect.

WARTBURG NIPS CENTRALITES ON HOME FLOOR

Blond Dutchmen Beaten 50 to 46 in Season Finale.

In the last encounter of the season, the inspired Wartburg Knights played an almost perfect basketball game to defeat the highly favored Central Dutchmen by a score of 50-46 at the Waverly high school gymnasium on Feb. 22.

Passing with near perfection and maintaining a crossed-fingering offense the Wartburg Knights scored almost at will. With Becker scoring from near the basket and Kappmeyer sinking long shots the Knights completely baffled the Central defense to run up the highest score of the season against one of the strongest teams in the conference.

Dominate Throughout.

Wartburg dominated the game throughout, but only in the evening minutes did Central appear to lead. Loupee opened the scoring with a two-counter followed by a gift toss by Mierau. Kappmeyer scored a goal to deprive Central of their lead. Becker followed with two quick goals to put Wartburg's lead up to 5-2.

Loupee scored again. Becker soon scored two goals with Kappmeyer following with another two-counter. Loupee scored a free toss and followed his own goal with a 15-4 Loupee followed through for two more points. Heist soon duplicated Loupee's effort with the final basket of the game. Haltzes from inside use of his pin and then after which Heist scored with a free throw. Then Becker took following with a free throw to put the Wartburgers far in front 19-7. Behrens, Manning, and Loupee then followed with goals. Then Kappmeyer and Manning each followed with two free throws to finish the scoring with a 50-46 final.

Both fives scored Wartburg 20, Central 19.

Keep Lead Until End.

Still maintaining their supremacy the Knights opened the second half scoring a field goal each by Wagner and Becker. Haltzes and Behrens then added four points to Central's score. Becker followed with a field goal and Wagner with sensational two points which were matched by Behrens. Manning then followed with a field goal and Heist a free throw. Wartburg led by 32-23. Becker rang the bell for two points after which Kappmeyer swished the net for two quick goals. Loupee followed with three points. Becker capped the game with two points followed by Loupee with another one of his quick-fire shots.

Kappmeyer tallied with another free toss after which Loupee again swished the net. Kappmeyer and Chadwick each added five points to Wartburg's total. Haltzman contributed two points followed by Chadwick and Heist with two points each. Wagoman followed with one count. Chadwick and Kappmeyer then added two goals by Chadwick and Kappmeyer. With but three minutes of playing time remaining Wartburg led 50-46. Some fancy passing by Wagoman and Bussman added four points. Loupee followed with three free throws. Wartburg held for the 50-46 tie that ended the game.

Clean Game.

All in all, it was a very clean basketball game. Ten fouls were called on team with five men fouling more than two times. Wartburg held a decided advantage of the line by making 20 of 30 missed only three shots while Central missed seven similar tries.

Loupee, Central's dread forward, led all scorers with his nine goals and two gift shots for a total of 20 points. Next the opposing ace Becker with his sensational shooting and dribbling starred 18 points could not be outdone. Kappmeyer with seven counters totaled 17 and 10 points respectively.

Sports Festival

All hands on deck for Wartburg's annual Sports Festival sponsored by the Trumpet sports staff. An evening of fine sports entertainment will be offered with no charge for admission.

Perfect Game.

The final gun at the Central-Wartburg game marked the end of what was, in the minds of many, the most speed filled, exciting and most perfect basketball game ever played on the local floor. Athletitons such as "My what a game," and "Wow, that one sure takes the cake," were commonly heard for days afterwards. In my estimation those opinions were well-grounded. I may truthfully say that this contest was marred by almost faultless playing. With 86 points scored in 40 minutes that game was packed with more thrills than games played in many a month.

Hats Off.

Hats off to Captain Norman Becker who for the second consecutive year was selected on the Knight's leading scorer.

Hats off to Coach Ralph McKinzie, coach of the Knightlets, and Vic Gluck, high-scoring Knight, for leading the team to eight victories in ten starts.
